Shrubs(5)	Begonia

Menu 1:

The menu is accessible from the navigation bar. When a user hovers over SHOP, the menu appears below the navigation bar. Within this dropdown, all the types of product are found. Next to each product there is a parenthesis with the number of product offering for each product. In this example, the user hovers over the "Annuals" product type. After hovering over the product, all of the product offerings appear.

Pros:

- Easily accessible from the navigation bar
- Clear and straight to the point
- Able to see the offerings without many clicks

Cons:

- Too simple no images or help text
- Space difficulty if product types increase

Menu 2:

After clicking on SHOP in the navigation bar, the site either scrolls to or loads the shop section (optional). All of the product types are listed along with a picture of the type of product. When the user hovers over the product type, an overlay is placed on top of the product image and all of the product offerings appear.

Pros:

- Product title and image helps accessibility
- Hovering over a product type allows to choose the offering

Cons:

- Product type images may draw too much attention
- Having an overlay must have good visibility of the text
